

Weill Cornell Medicine

Anesthesiology

The Anesthesiology Global Health Fellowship at Weill Cornell Medical College is an intensive one-year program that provides residency-trained anesthesiologists an opportunity to become world leaders in global health, both within and outside of the medical sphere.

Our innovative educational curriculum is uniquely designed to create a career trajectory that allows for both clinical excellence and institution-building capabilities. It includes:

Anesthesiology Global Health Fellowship

- 12 weeks of work and travel abroad.
- Rigorous global health training through Weill Cornell Anesthesiology's Global Health Initiative, research at the Weill Cornell Center for Human Rights, and programs at the United Nations
- Academic research projects abroad, in collaboration with social justice activists, non-profit organizations, and universities.
- Clinical experience as an attending anesthesiologist at Weill Cornell Medical College/NewYork-Presbyterian Hospital.

APPLICATIONS DUE JANUARY 31, 2020

For questions, please contact Dr. Gunisha Kaur gus2004@med.cornell.edu

anesthesiology.weill.cornell.edu